U. S. Attorney General Orders Inquiry Into Prices Of Gasoline In Middle West

REDUCTIONS COME FAST AS CITIES ENTER IN FUEL WAR

Motorists Fill Tanks as Cost Rapidly Falls; Officials Aid in Campaign

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—To determine if there had been an illegal combination to restrain trade or restrain prices, Attorney General Daugherty has ordered United States attorneys in middle western states to undertake an investigation of gasoline prices, it was learned at the capital today.

Investigation was instituted in Illinois without direct orders from Washington when producers agreed to shut off production in the middle continent field during the month of August to stabilize prices, but the investigation has now become more general and will include the whole price situation.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Eleven midwestern states served by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana today purchased gasoline at 15.4 cents to 18 cents a gallon as fruit of a temporary victory in the price war started by Governor W. H. McMaster of South Dakota. Other states of the West and Middle West set themselves to follow South Dakota's example, if possible. The Standard's cut was 6.6 cents which was announced effective throughout the territory where prices of 22 to 24 cents had prevailed.

Governor Sweet of Colorado has asked the dealers of his state to meet the South Dakota cut. Governor Ryan of Nebraska telegraphed a request to Attorney General Daugherty for investigation of the Standard Oil companies.

The states served by Standard Oil of Indiana are: Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Kansas.

DR. WESTPHAL HOME FROM LONG STAY IN EAST

Medical Superintendent at Sanitarium Tells of His Varied Experiences

DR. HENRY G. WESTPHAL, medical superintendent of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, has returned with Mrs. Westphal to their home at 337 North Isabel street, after an eastern trip of over two months, that took them through every state in the northern half of the country, with the exception of Maine, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Dr. and Mrs. Westphal left Glendale June 2, returning August 10. Their itinerary led them first to Fairfield, Ia., where for a week Mrs. Westphal visited with relatives, while her husband inspected the Mayo's clinic at Rochester, Minn.

From there they went on to Chicago where Dr. Westphal was joined by C. E. Kimlin, general manager of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, the two officials making purchases of furniture and carpets for the new local institution now under construction in the northwest part of this city.

At Battle Creek
Dr. Westphal again joined Mr. Kimlin at Battle Creek, Mich., where together they looked over the famous sanitarium there. Dr. and Mrs. Westphal remained for some days. Mr. Kimlin leaving almost at once.

The Westphals stopped over and visited Niagara Falls between trains, then proceeded down the St. Lawrence river to Montreal, then to Boston, where Dr. Westphal did some clinical work at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

They then went on to New York, where the doctor spent four weeks studying at the various clinics, while Mrs. Westphal enjoyed some of the many interesting things to be found in and around the great eastern metropolis.

On the return trip west, they came through Washington, D. C., arriving July 29. From there they went back to Chicago, then over the northern route through Montana to Spokane, Seattle, Portland, San Francisco and home, stopping on the way at Antigo, Wis.

HIGH SCHOOL INCREASES STAFF OF TEACHERS

Growth in Number of Pupils In Coming Year Calls For Larger Faculty

Several hundred more students are expected to be in attendance at the opening of school than were at the close of the last term of Glendale Union High School.

The exact enrollment is difficult to estimate, according to Principal George U. Moyle, because of the fact that it is not known yet whether or not any pupils residing in Eagle Rock will continue to attend the local school. Since the annexation of Eagle Rock to Los Angeles the question as to what to do with the 175 pupils from Eagle Rock, who were in attendance last term, has puzzled the local Board of Trustees. The Los Angeles Board of Education is now negotiating in an effort to have students who were enrolled here last term and others who live within a short distance of the new high school plant, attend Glendale Union High School.

Although last September's D9 class was a record-breaker in size, the coming class of freshmen will be still larger. A check up of the graduating classes from the two intermediate schools revealed the fact that the new class will contain at least 75 more pupils.

Expect 1700 Pupils
The high school enrollment October 6, 1922, was 1528 pupils. At the end of the last term it had increased to 1915 students. However, this figure includes many students who had moved away to other school districts and others who had ceased attendance. The number of students, who were actually in attendance last June, amounted to 1440. Mr. Moyle estimated yesterday that this number would be increased to about 1700.

Owing to the fact that the new high school plant will not be completed by September 11, when school is scheduled to open, it is planned to start the new term in the present plant. It is hoped that sessions can be transferred to the new plant in a few weeks.

Co-ordination of different grades and classes, in the opinion of Mr. Moyle, would make it very undesirable to have some classes in each plant. He is aware of the fact that a portion of the new plant will be ready before the opening of school but does not believe that it would be practicable to divide the school. He calls attention to the fact that such an arrangement would not only handicap the teachers and students but the presence of the students would interfere with the completion of construction.

Half Day Sessions
To take care of the additional enrollment, Mr. Moyle stated that half day sessions might be a possibility. He added that details to enable the school to function with the greatest efficiency are being worked out.

The faculty for next year will

Political Supremacy Now Goes From Ohio Into State of Massachusetts

Massachusetts statesmen at helm of ship of state. Top, left to right: President Calvin C. Coolidge; War Secretary Weeks; Senate Leader Henry Cabot Lodge. Below: Thomas C. Marvin, chairman of the United States tariff commission; Representative William S. Green, chairman of the house merchant marine committee; Representative Samuel Winslow, chairman of the house interstate and foreign committee, and Speaker Frederick H. Gillette.

The star of Ohio wanes as that of Massachusetts ascends and shines more brightly in national government and national politics, with the change of administration, from the hands of Warren G. Harding to those of Calvin Coolidge.

The meaning of this in broad effect is a shift from middle west conservatism, which, after all, is somewhat flexible, to the more rigid conservatism of New England. That will mean a great impression upon government and upon American politics. Seldom before in history has there been such concentration of national political power in one state as Massachusetts now embraces.

Massachusetts now has the presidency through Calvin Coolidge; the speakership of the house of representatives through Frederick H. Gillette; leadership of the senate through Henry Cabot Lodge; influential representation in the cabinet through Secretary of War John W. Weeks; chairmanship of the United States tariff commission through Thomas C. Marvin; to say nothing of Senator Lodge as chairman of foreign relations in the senate, Representative Samuel Winslow as chairman of the house interstate and foreign commerce committee, William S. Green as chairman of the house merchant marine and fisheries committee, and Frederick W. Dallinger as chairman of the house committee on education and labor, succeeding an Ohioan, Simeon D. Fess.

Tulsa, Under Martial Law, Is Indignant At Governor

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 14.—Tulsa awoke today under martial law, surprised and angry. Indignation was expressed at Governor C. J. Walton's proclamation placing the city under martial law, as the result of the whipping of Nathan Hantman by a masked band. Troops rushed here from Oklahoma City and Okmulgee today to police the streets.

Under the martial law proclamation, citizens must be off the streets by 11 p. m. unless they have special permits. The governor's proclamation said that Tulsa police had failed in their duty, that the law must be enforced, and that the sending of troops was necessary. The proclamation was the result of Hantman's appeal to Aldridge Black, the governor's counselor. Black communicated with the governor, who is in Sulphur on a vacation. Companies A and D, 119th Infantry of Oklahoma City, and Company E of Okmulgee were ordered to report to Tulsa immediately. Adjutant General George Markham was instructed to take charge of the troops.

Hantman is living at a Main street rooming house and is said to be the husband of its owner, Mrs. Mabel West. According to reports of the flogging, he was taken to the outskirts of the city, his hands and feet tied together over the limb of a tree and a big whip used over his body. His assailants were not arrested.

"These outrages must stop," Governor Walton's proclamation said.

GRADUATING EXERCISES ARE HELD

Glendale Sanitarium Class Of Twenty-one Nurses Given Diplomas

In perfect harmony with the class motto, "For God and Humanity," was the commencement address given last night by Pastor Luther Warren of San Diego at the graduation exercises for the class of 1923 of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital at the Seventh-day Adventist church on North Isabel street.

The auditorium and annexes at the little church were crowded to capacity and people stood in the doorways and on the porches for the program, significant because it marked the graduation of the largest class in the history of the institution and also the final class to receive training in the old building on East Broadway.

Pastor Warren's brief but fitting address radiated around the scriptural passage Acts 10:38 and in developing his theme he cited "Jesus Christ as the Physician in Chief."

Recalls Early Days
He recalled the early days at the Seventh-day Adventist sanitarium at Battle Creek, Michigan, and of attending the graduation of the first class.

To the class he said, "Graduation is a milestone marking those

LITTLE HOPE OF SAVING ENTOMBED SCORES IN WYOMING DISASTER

Cave In Near Entrance Hampers Rescue Work, Officials Report

KEMMERER, Wyo., Aug. 14.—A terrific explosion of unknown cause, shortly before noon today in the Pioneer mine of the Kemmerer Coal & Coke Company shook the countryside for miles around and trapped more than 200 coal miners.

According to home officials of the coal company there were 217 men entered the mine this morning.

One dead body, unidentified, had been removed from the mine at 1 o'clock.

Great confusion prevailed around the mouth of the shaft, and fear was expressed that there would be little hope of saving any of the entrapped men alive.

The Pioneer mine was an old working and there is little chance of getting ventilation into it.

The explosion is said to have let go at a depth of 1700 feet and is thought to have been caused by a dust explosion.

A cave-in near the entrance hampered rescue workers from entering the mine.

A United States rescue car was in Kemmerer when the explosion occurred and the crew was rushed to the scene of the disaster about a mile west of the city.

Kemmerer is in the extreme southwestern section of Wyoming, close to the Utah state line.

A SOCIAL EVENT

Children's Party

"Palm Villa," the beautiful home of Mrs. Adelaide H. Imier at 336 West Park avenue, was the scene of a novel "kiddies' party" Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. Imier, assisted by her daughter, Miss Marjorie Imier, and Miss Catherine Phillips of Los Angeles, entertained more than a score of youngsters and their mothers in honor of the third birthday of Mrs. Imier's grand-daughter, Adelaide Jean Imier. The tiny honoree is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Imier of this city.

Besides being thoroughly enjoyed by all present the party was unique in that it marked the gathering of the third generation of families who assembled under the same roof years ago in equally pleasant entertainment. Practically all of the mothers of the playful tots were Glendale school girls but a few brief years ago, when many enjoyable social functions were held by the ever-hospitable Mrs. Imier.

The home was appropriately decorated for the occasion, the color scheme being carried out in pink and white. Attractively arranged groups of roses and carnations made an artistic setting for the vari-colored favors which were presented to the playful merry-makers.

The afternoon was spent in games, contests and music, after which the guests gathered around a huge table, upon the center of which was an elaborately arranged birthday cake bearing three pink candles. After due ceremonies the cake was cut and served with pink and white ice-cream, termed by the youngsters as "the best ever."

The guests included Wayne Smith, Jr., and mother, Mrs. Wayne Smith; Dorothy Jane Ripley and John Scott Ripley, Mrs. Noble Ripley; Marcia and Jack Smith, Mrs. Seymour Smith; Mary Jane Eaton, Mrs. Jack Eaton; Wallace Bradley, Mrs. Lloyd Bradley; Marcus Peterson, Jr., Mrs. Marcus Peterson; Chandler and Darrell Vincent, Mrs. Newell Vincent; Barbara Anne and Allen Buskin; Mrs. Will Buskin; Norval Lavine, Mrs. Clayton Lavine; Marshall Logan Georson, Mrs. Marshall Pearson; George Van Hazel; Jean Silverthorn, Mrs. Norton Silverthorn.

Late in the evening refreshments were served by the hostess. The teachers who were guests were Miss May Cornwell, Mrs. W. G. Hulse, Mrs. L. D. Hopkins, Miss Euell Ballinger and Miss Edith Ledyard. State Bureaus Must Pay Rent of Offices

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Self-supporting state boards and commissions with offices in the San Francisco State building have been notified that they must pay rent to the state government, it was announced today.

The state demands 12 cents per square foot for office space used by its self-sustaining departments. The rental money will be used in defraying the expenses of maintaining the building.

The majority of the boards are in arrears in their rent, however, as State Controller Ray L. Riley, the guardian of their earnings, refuses to release their funds until the state supreme court settles the budget controversy.

Fire Patrols Formed By Lumber Companies

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 14.—Organization of the private fire patrols which must be operated by lumber companies under the provisions of a bill passed by the last legislature is nearing completion, according to State Forester M. B. Pratt.

Pratt estimates that approximately 100 patrols will be operated by the lumber companies of the state. Some of the fire-fighting organizations will be formed by the state at the expense of the companies in whose territory they operate.

The fire patrol law goes into effect August 17. On the same date another forestry measure, providing for the creation of the office of state fire marshal, becomes law. The fire marshal, who will receive his appointment from the governor, will guard against fires outside of incorporated cities.

BOBBED HAIR TO GO, IS VERDICT

Mrs. E. C. Pendroy Tells Trend of Modern Fashion After Trip East

The passing of the "bob" and the bright-colored shoes is emphasized by Mrs. E. C. Pendroy, of the Pendroy Department store, who has recently arrived home from New York City, where she attended the Merchandise exposition, a display of the products of eastern manufacturers according to the latest dictates of fashion for the fall and winter.

Mrs. Pendroy left Glendale July 11, going first to Kansas for a visit with relatives. Mrs. Pendroy returned to Glendale after a two weeks' visit, while Mrs. Pendroy went on to Chicago and New York to buy for their Glendale store.

"It is really a wonderful experience to attend the Merchandise exposition," says Mrs. Pendroy, "and it is absolutely essential to a buyer who is desirous of knowing the 'last word' in fashion."

The following are some "bright" mentions made by Mrs. Pendroy that will be of interest in midday's costume for the fall and winter.

Favor Long Skirt
"New York women still favor the long skirt for all wear. Street length is from six to eight inches from the floor."

"Evening gowns are bright in color and of the same favored materials, georgette, Roma crepe, chiffons. There are some taffeta ones, made on the bouffant style."

"The tailored dress will be good. Navy is a popular color as is the wood shade (sandalwood color), to the deep brown."

"The hats are both large and small. The small hat is most desirable for street wear. There is much handwork on the hats in chenille, yarn, and silk; also beading, the wooden beads being popular. Other features are hand-painting on the hats, and feather trimmings."

"Fur is very evident for trimming. Fur collars and cuffs are seen on the majority of the coats, whether long or short."

"Blouses follow the popular styles, the over blouse being a good type."

"Costume jewelry is still in vogue and the bright Oriental effects are most attractive."

Bobbed Hair Going
"As for the hair, the 'bob' is going out. In the New York hairdressing parlors they almost refuse to bob one's hair. The hair dress is either high or low, the low being preferred among the maids and matrons who have had their hair bobbed."

"The colored shoes are another fad that is passing."

"There are many delightful coats, all on the long lines with huge fur collars and cuffs. The cape is being used chiefly for evening wear."

"In the matter of make-up, the women are following their own ideas. The pale face with brilliant lips does not dominate. Rouge is used, but not the extreme orange color."

Reductions Come Fast In War on Gas Price

sas, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan and Oklahoma.

Independent producers, protesting bitterly against a figure they claimed was ruinous, cut their price from 22 cents to 17 cents in an attempt to meet Standard's slash.

Temporary Only
L. V. Nichols, head of the National Petroleum Marketers' association, said:

"It is the old story. The Standard Oil company is not meeting competition. Its price reduction is a repetition and the type of brutal reprisal which the independent oil industry has learned to fear."

And Standard officials admitted the cut was a temporary measure only in an official statement, saying:

"The Standard Oil company will welcome a change of attitude of all parties concerned resulting in a reasonable price for gasoline which will enable not only it, but all its competitors to enjoy a reasonable profit."

Price Goes Down
PITTSBURGH, Aug. 14.—Gasoline in the Pittsburgh district is down another 2 cents a gallon today. Atlantic Refining company, Standard Oil subsidiary, is quoting the best grade at 25 cents a gallon, and 22 cents for the motor grade, exclusive of a state tax of 2 cents a gallon. Independents are quoting the same prices.

'Almost at Wholesale'
OMAHA, Aug. 14.—Gasoline sold for 16 1/2 cents in Omaha today. Standard Oil company and independent concerns in Nebraska cut the price 6 1/2 cents a gallon following action of Governor Charles W. Bryan and City Commissioner John Hopkins of Omaha. Governor Bryan had wired all oil officials, demanding a cut of 1 cent below the rate recently established in South Dakota, because of the difference in freight rates.

Regardless of the fact that the price has been cut, the city of Omaha will go ahead with its plans to sell gas at almost wholesale, said Commissioner Hopkins, "it will be an assurance that we will always have low gasoline in the future."

Motorists Get Busy
DES MOINES, Aug. 14.—Iowa

Whoa, Ed! Why, You Know We Have No Fish!

EDWARD COCHRAN, formerly of Morrison, Ill., is believed to be in Glendale. He will be known for his ability to tell fish stories, such as have never been heard before. Witness the following from the Whiteside Sentinel of Morrison, Ill., his "home town" paper:

"He recently told of seeing a black bass caught at Glendale weighing 225 pounds, and this the smallest of eight caught by a gentleman showing the same, who made a specialty of catching the bigger members of the fish family."

Say, Ed. Where did you get that stuff?

For the benefit of the public, and your Missouri friends in particular to whom we are sending this story of denial, there never was any such fish as you mention.

Further, there is no fishing hole near Glendale where you could possibly catch more than a wriggler.

But say, Ed? Why didn't you tell them the truth and state that Glendale increased in population from less than 15,000 in 1920 to more than 40,000 at the present time?

DR. WESTPHAL IS BACK FROM TRIP

Business Conditions Appear Good, He Says; Pleased At Patient's Progress

Wis., where the doctor enjoyed a visit to his old home.

Preventative Medicine
All the eastern clinics are very active and are devoting a great deal of attention to preventative medicine. Dr. Westphal reports, the entire stress, nowadays, being laid on prevention rather than cure.

Particularly interesting work is being done with insulin, in diabetes cases, he states, there being many instances of patients returned to good health after proper administration of this treatment.

Dr. Westphal was greatly pleased with the progress on the new local institution, which a trip of inspection showed him to be at present in process of plastering and putting in partitions.

It now appears certain that the great modern home of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital being erected at a cost of $500,000, will open around the first of the year.

Business Is Good
In the east, it was Dr. Westphal's observation that business conditions were brisk, with wages high and employees scarce. In the middle west, however, he found a totally different situation, with wages low, capital tight and unemployment general.

Farmers, particularly, were hard hit, he said. They were unable to produce enough to make any money, and found great difficulty in getting loans on their land, while it was next to impossible to sell out at any kind of fair price.

The sullen, grim determination of these farmers to better agricultural conditions is reflected in the recent election to the United States Senate of Magnus Johnson, the "dirt farmer" from Wisconsin.

Everyone is interested in California, according to Dr. Westphal. "That's a place where I'm going to visit," he is an expression heard everywhere—from bus drivers, physicians, hotel clerks, nurses, landlords, farmers, mechanics, merchants, salesmen, everyone. "They're all looking with hopeful, eager eyes to California," says Dr. Westphal.

gas struck a new low price today. Following the cut of Standard Oil Company of Indiana, in all sections of the state, to 14 1/2 cents a gallon, independent stations jumped on the band wagon and motorists early began to take advantage of the low prices. The Manhattan Oil company with ten stations here and ninety other stations in various Iowa towns, maintained the Standard's prices, and other companies fell in line.

"We are selling at a loss," the salesmanager of one of the local independent companies said. "But we can't afford to keep gasoline on hand when the other fellow is selling it at lower prices. The only thing the independents can hope for is an equitable adjustment of the entire tangle as soon as possible."

L. A. War at Standstill
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—Los Angeles' gasoline "war" was at a standstill today, there being no slashing of prices either by the "big four" oil companies or the independent filling stations. For several weeks the independents have been selling gasoline ranging from 2 cents to 3 cents per gallon cheaper than the Standard Oil and other large companies, whose price for gasoline is 17 cents a gallon.

Plan Conference
COLUMBUS, Aug. 14.—Governor Doherty today will confer with Fred H. Carley and C. C. James, Columbus, president and secretary, respectively, of the Ohio Automobile Association relative to any possible action in Ohio in the "gas war" situation. It was announced at the governor's office.

Shoe polishers now use electric polishing machines.

PLAN LONG TRIP IN HOUSE-TRUCK

Second Honeymoon of Aged Couple Will Extend to Pacific Coast

BELOIT, Wis., Aug. 13.—In a little cottage tucked up the side of a motor truck Charles and Capitola Kidder of Beloit will start on their second honeymoon after fifty years of married life.

The golden honeymoon will take them across a continent. From the day of their marriage fifty years ago they have dreamed and planned of this trip, now to be realized.

With the drawing near of the golden anniversary of their marriage the now aged couple began to feel more than ever the wanderlust that so long they had held in restraint. And so they planned their trip.

The wife, as the time drew near for the departure, declared that she "would not like the hotel" and would miss many other things of her comfortable home. Her husband, likewise, was sure that he would not enjoy the trip without his wife's cooking. So the plan of building a home upon a truck in which to make the trip was struck upon and accepted.

The Kidders are not taking with them the old dishes that have served them for years. The best in the home is going; the little cupboard built in the truck is jammed full of cherry flowered china.

Years ago the Kidders took into their home an orphan boy. Grown to manhood now, he will serve as driver when the trans-continental trip begins.

The Kidders plan to visit California and other Pacific Coast states and then "probably will return to Beloit."

The season's crop is not so much dependent on praying as on spraying.

PRIZES OFFERED FOR BEST ESSAYS

Money Awards for Students For Best Thesis on Immigration

(Glendale Post 127, American Legion, is again glad to call to the attention of the students of Glendale schools a feature of its national Americanism commission program, says a communication received this morning from Commander Chalmers D. Day.

"Extending from May 25th to October 12, an essay contest is on. The question for consideration is: 'Why America could prohibit immigration for five years.' National prizes are: First, $750; second, $500; third, $250. State prizes are silver and bronze medals and a certificate of merit issued by the national headquarters of the legion. The cash prizes are to be used only towards scholarships in colleges designated by the winners.

Terms of Contest
"All girls and boys between the ages of twelve and eighteen inclusive are eligible to enter this contest, but only one essay, which must not be over 500 words in length, is allowed to a person. Only one side of the paper is to be used and a margin of one inch must be allowed on either side. The paper should be neatly folded, not rolled, spelled, penmanship and neatness will be considered; age will be given full consideration also.

"Calling attention to this contest comes at an opportune time to assist in the continuance of the profitable occupation of the thought and attention of young America during the vacation season. The subject for this contest is a truly great and important one and who knows but that an essay written by one of our own Glendale students may influence proper immigration legislation.

"We know that a change in our immigration system must be made for the one operating at present is not consistent with proper Americanization nor is it fair to the immigrant who comes to our shores."

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Within the last two years banking institutions have usurped the locations formerly occupied by forty more or less famous Paris hotels.

HOLD EXERCISES FOR GRADUATION

Last and Largest Class in Sanitarium's History Is Given Diplomas

things that have been accomplished and we go on to larger and better things."

The customary order of graduation exercises was observed last night.

The church auditorium was artistically decorated in the class colors, maroon and white, and the class flowers, red and white carnations, were used in profusion on the platform.

The nurses' procession opening the program is always most impressive and last night long before 8 o'clock a crowded church awaited this event.

Entering the church first were the faculty and staff of the institution and directly following were the undergraduate nurses in their striped dresses, white aprons and caps. These juniors formed down each aisle while the twenty-one graduates, costumed for the first time in their white uniforms, marched into the church and took places on the platform.

Seated on the platform with them were Mrs. Daisy D. Harris, superintendent of nurses; Dr. H. G. Westphal, medical superintendent of the Sanitarium and Hospital; Dr. Riley Russell, Dr. W. J. Johnson and Pastor Luther Warren.

Musical Program
Two orchestral numbers opened the program, "Meditation" (Symphonetti) and "Coronation March" (Meyerbeer). Members of the orchestra were Fred L. Clint, violin; Edwin J. Moore, cello; A. Belle Johnson, piano; Mrs. Charles E. Swartsfager, organ.

Other musical selections were two solos by Dr. Joseph Marple, baritone. Accompanied by Mrs. Marple he sang beautifully, "The Lord Is My Shepherd" (Van De Water) and "Building Day by Day" (Herbert Lathrop). Two violin selections were played by Fred L. Clint. They were "Liebesfreud" (Fritz Kreisler) and "Berceuse" (Godard).

In recognition of their professional ambition the graduates were led in the Florence Nightingale pledge by Mrs. Daisy D. Harris, R. N. The pledge follows:

Nurses' Pledge
"I solemnly pledge myself before God and in the presence of this assembly to pass my life in devotion faithfully. I will abstain from whatever is deleterious and mischievous and will not take or knowingly administer any harmful drug."

"I will do all in my power to elevate the standard of my profession and will hold in confidence all personal matters committed to my keeping and all family affairs coming to my knowledge in the practice of my calling."

"With loyalty I will endeavor to aid the physician in his work and devote myself to the welfare of those committed to my care."

The diplomas were presented by Dr. H. G. Westphal to the following: Mary Adams, Grace Blair, Vivian Bright, Helen Gardner,

MARY M. MINTER TELLS OF LOVE

Film Star Admits She Was Engaged to William Desmond Taylor

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—Casting a new light on the mystery that for almost two years has surrounded the murder here of William Desmond Taylor, motion picture director, Mary Miles Minter, film actress, admitted today that she was engaged to marry Taylor at the time he was slain.

Admitting she had been engaged to the director, the young actress declared she had wanted to announce her love for Taylor to the world, but that she had kept it a secret on advice of her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, from whom she is now estranged and against whom she threatens to file suit for the return of $1,300,000, which, she claims, her mother owes her.

At the time the police and other authorities investigated the murder of Taylor, without finding the slayer, Miss Minter was interrogated at the district attorney's office but never revealed that she was betrothed to the slain man.

The actress declared her affection for Taylor had its inception when they first met and it was a case of love at first sight and that she still loved him in death today.

"I knew little of Mr. Taylor's past life, but he was always a gentleman, gentle and respectful," she said. "I didn't care what he had been, for when he held me in his arms and said, 'Mary, I love you,' I knew he was the one man I could love and would sacrifice for. Had it not been for opposition to our engagement we would have been married."

"I simply lived in his life; always thought of him, and when I came home from the studio dreamed of him. We were to have been married as soon as I was 18 years old."

"His death was almost too much for me. It seemed as if I could not stand it. Then all the influence over me was brought to bear to keep our engagement a secret. They told me that talk would hurt my career. No one knew I was engaged—I was only a little girl with pretty curls."

The investigation of Taylor's past life showed Taylor's woman friends included many stars of filmdom, and it was not revealed that he showered his affections on any one in particular.

A pack of letters, written by Miss Minter to Taylor when she was abroad was found by the officers, and the theory was advanced that he might have been slain by some jealous suitor. Immediately after the director's death it was declared he and Miss Minter were only friends.

Jess Grisham, Vesta Hall, Ethel Hahn, Lorraine Hatcher, Mae Johnson, Olive Kime, Mary Martin, Ella Fink, Irene Nelson, Arthur Place, Blanche Smith, Pearl Smith, Edna Smith, Marcella Storta, Alice Tallant, Ruth Thompson and Rose Unruh.

The invocation was given by Dr. William J. Johnson and the benediction by Dr. Riley Russell.

Mad Bull Drives Car With Foot On Siren
GLENWOOD, Wis., Aug. 13.—Residents of this town are having a difficult time of it convincing strangers that they really saw a mad bull driving a truck down one of the main streets recently, sounding the siren as he went. John Heyar and Otto Kamm were driving the bull to the stock yards when it burst through the truck railing. The men suddenly remembered some errand they had to run and left the truck. The bull got one hoof on the accelerator and one of the siren. He went speeding down the street until collision with a fire hydrant smashed the truck and ended the drive.

Return Indictments In Bucket Shop Probe
NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The first of a series of indictments promised by United States District Attorney William Hayward in the bucketing investigation which he said would "rock Wall Street," were returned this afternoon by the federal grand jury. The indictment, which was sealed, named four men prominent in the political and sporting world and followed the appearance before the grand jury of William F. McGee, partner in the defunct brokerage company of E. M. Fuller & Co., which collapsed with a loss of $5,000,000. "Conspiracy to conceal assets" was alleged in the indictment.

COAL STRIKE CONSIDERED IN CABINET MEETING

Reparations Question and
Recognition of Mexico
Also Discussed

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The Harding cabinet will remain at their posts indefinitely at the request of President Coolidge, it was officially announced at the White House today. At the cabinet meeting today, each member agreed to remain with the new administration. It was announced that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, the only absentee, has informed the president by cable that he will also remain for the present.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14.—The first cabinet meeting of the Coolidge administration was held at the White House today. While the president, during the last ten days, has held many conferences with the members of the cabinet, today's gathering marked the first formal convening of the cabinet since the meeting in June, just prior to President Harding's departure for Alaska.

Out of today's meeting it is hoped will come the first real pronouncement of policy in behalf of the Coolidge administration as the cabinet session is to be followed by a conference with the press.

Recognition of Mexico
Of foremost importance on the cabinet board was consideration of the threatened strike in the anthracite fields on September 1. The major subjects touched upon, included the reparations question and the negotiations now under way for the recognition of Mexico. Much information was laid before President Coolidge relative to the coal situation. Secretary of Commerce Hoover and Secretary of Labor Davis, just returned from Europe, brought to the cabinet meeting a mass of information.

General opinion, based on information from authoritative quarters is that President Coolidge at the outset will employ conciliatory methods in an effort to avert a strike.

The reparations question, in view of recent developments, gave Secretary Hughes, much to report at today's meeting.

Secretary Hughes likewise reported on the Mexico City "recognition conference." These negotiations had been virtually completed at the time President Harding's death brought affairs of state to a temporary standstill, but it is understood now that the work will be finished up in short order and recognition of the Oregon government—one of the late president's greatest ambitions—accomplished.

Conference Tomorrow
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14.—Moral suasion will be the first weapon the government will use in bringing the anthracite operators and miners together again to negotiate a new wage scale to replace the one expiring September 1, it was authoritatively declared today.

Members of the United States Coal Commission will meet a selected group of anthracite operators and miners in New York tomorrow afternoon to inform them that President Coolidge is anxious that they get together.

The operators and miners will be told plainly that a strike in the anthracite fields is unthinkable, and unless the negotiations are voluntarily resumed the government is prepared to take drastic steps to end the deadlock. Having delivered this message, the commission is expected to retire from the meeting.

Ku Klux at Funeral Service Here, Report

Six asserted members of the Ku Klux Klan are reported to have held last rites here over the body of H. B. Kneller at Grand View Memorial Park yesterday afternoon.

The Rev. Clifford A. Cole, who officiated for services conducted under the auspices of Glendale Elks' Lodge No. 1289, said that mourners were surprised to see the pallbearers retire and from hand satchels produce the flowing robes and hoods.

With a miniature cross lighted by three candles they carried the casket to the grave and performed a ritual which was not audible to many of those present.

In accordance with the recently enacted state law, the hooded party did not have their faces masked, according to reports, and several were recognized as business men in Glendale.

Mr. Kneller had been a resident of this city for ten years, although about twelve months ago he went to Taft to work. He returned here several weeks ago for an operation which was performed in a Los Angeles hospital. He died Friday, August 10, 1923.

AUTO COLLISION

Objection to being cranked while in gear was expressed about 5:30 o'clock last night by the automobile of T. L. Edens, Jr., of 132 West Laurel street which started and ran into a machine a short distance away. It was stopped before much damage had been done.

President Coolidge, At His Desk, Wearing Mourning For Harding

This photo of Coolidge was taken as he disposed of some vital matters at his desk in the vice president's room in the Capitol August 4. He will utilize this office, with his hotel rooms, for some weeks. Note the mourning band on his left sleeve.

The first official act performed by Calvin Coolidge as thirtieth president of the United States was to issue a proclamation setting aside Friday, August 10, as a national day of mourning for President Harding. Until

President Harding was buried the new executive planned to handle only such official business as cannot wait. In addition to the temporary "White House" quarters he is occupying at the New Willard hotel, Coolidge will utilize his old office in the capitol until the Coolidges move into the real White House and the presidential office in the capitol is in shape for occupation.

Budget Builder Changes Color Of Famous Car

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 14.—The most elegant and best known automobile in state service—the "Red Vanity Box"—has lost its identity.

The "Red Vanity Box," which was owned by Mrs. Nellie Brewer Pierce, Governor Richardson's budget-maker, by Gilbert Daniels when the latter retired from the chairmanship of the State Board of Control, was sent to the garage for a coat of paint and came out painted blue.

Mrs. Pierce, being conservative when colors are under consideration, ordered the change in hue from red to blue and the famous car is now known as the "Blue Vamp."

La Crescentan Freed On Charge of Assault

Tom Krauski of La Crescenta has an aversion for goats. They get on his hillside garden and chew things in general. Already he has shot one goat for such a misdemeanor.

And last week while he was hunting rattlesnakes, he found Walter Brown herding Dr. Henry A. Malley's goats. One of the flock got into the Krauski garden. "Get the goats away from here," ordered Tom with a flourish. Walter thought he might shoot. In fact, he charged the gardener with assault.

Justice of the Peace Harry W. Chase here this morning adjudged him not guilty on a plea of Attorney R. A. Ramey that Krauski was not so desperate as the boy imagined.

High School Average Attendance Growing

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 14.—The high schools of California had a combined average daily attendance during the school year 1922-23 of 125,521, showing a gain of 14 per cent over the preceding twelve-month period, according to estimates announced today by Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction.

Because of the phenomenal increase in school attendance, Wood said the high schools will receive approximately $3,765,630 in the next state apportionment, a gain of $459,600 over the previous allotment.

Maintain Embargo on Cattle From Arizona

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 14.—The embargo of the state department of agriculture against the shipment into California of Arizona cattle which have not been examined and declared free from sheep scab, will not be removed as a result of the protest of Governor Hunt of Arizona. It was announced by the division of animal industry.

Apache county is the only section of Arizona affected by the embargo, according to Dr. J. P. Iverson, chief of the animal industry division, and cattle outside of the quarantine area may be shipped into the state.

Governor Hunt's objection, which was received at the executive offices here, stated enforcement of the embargo would threaten the existence of the cattle industry in Arizona, as a large part of Arizona stock is shipped to California.

Santa Fe to Build Electric Road, Plan

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—With all surveys said to be complete and the plans only awaiting the signature of the president of the road, the Santa Fe railroad company is prepared to build a direct electric railroad between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The longest electric railroad in the United States. Present plans for the new road call for more than thirty miles of travel now necessary on other roads. It is expected that construction of the new road will cost approximately $25,000,000.

The new road, as surveyed, is said to be from San Francisco to Bakersfield and thence south and east to the Tehachapi mountains by the least geographical resistance and then through an extensive tunnel system to Los Angeles.

Urge Appointment to State Highway Post

PLACERVILLE, (El Dorado Co.) Aug. 14.—Appointment of M. T. Kelly, mayor of Placerville, as a member of the advisory committee to the State Highway Commission, provided for by the last legislature, was urged upon Governor Richardson in a resolution adopted by the El Dorado county Board of Supervisors.

Corporation License Fees Exceed Million

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 14.—Evidencing general development throughout the state and greatly increased business activity, E. W. Gardiner, chief of the corporation license department of the secretary of state's office, announces that corporation license fees for the first six months of this year totaled in excess of $1,000,000, exceeding the total collections for all of last year.

Making his semi-annual report to Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan, Gardiner called attention to the fact that since its creation in 1911 the department has collected $10,347,432.68 in filing fees, and licensed a total of 40,265 corporations. A total of 105,141 firms are now incorporated in the state.

During last year, Gardiner reports, collections aggregated $993,962.88, as against collections thus far this year totaling $1,097,288.55.

Cerritos School Unit Will Be Considered

Tentative plans for the new unit for the Cerritos school will be presented by Architect Arthur G. Lindley of 123 South Belmont street tonight to the Board of Education.

Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools, will report the fact that Mark Keppel, county superintendent of schools, has approved the budget for the local school system without change or correction.

"The assessed valuation of each school district will be known in a few days," writes Mr. Keppel. "The tax rate will not be set until September 4. Immediately after September 4 this office will send you an estimate of the income of your school district for the school year beginning July 1, 1923 and ending June 30, 1924."

Arthur Dibbern Tells Of Lodge Convention

An account of the recent grand lodge gathering at Atlanta, Ga., by Arthur H. Dibbern, delegate from the Glendale Elks' lodge, and a band concert by the lodge band led by R. E. Kenny, were the two features last night at the regular meeting of the local lodge.

Many of the lodge members are out of the city on vacations, so that only 150 were in attendance at the meeting last night.

After the completion of routine business affairs and making plans for the indoor circus August 24 and 25 at the Tuesday afternoon clubhouse, Mr. Dibbern spoke for an hour on the Atlanta gathering and on his travels since.

President Coolidge to Take Action, England Learns;
Situation Critical

BULLETIN
BERLIN, Aug. 14.—Chancellor Gustav Stresemann, in his maiden speech in the reichstag this afternoon, expressed his willingness to submit the Ruhr controversy to arbitration.

The reichstag gave Chancellor Stresemann a vote of confidence 240 to 70. There were twenty-five not voting.

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service
LONDON, Aug. 14.—Premier Stanley Baldwin conferred with King George today, presumably upon reparations situation.

A new element of interest was injected into the Ruhr reparations question by a report from Washington that President Coolidge might intervene between England and France.

Officials indicated Great Britain would be willing to accept the good offices of the United States. Members of the cabinet have been warned to hold themselves in readiness for a meeting at any hour. In the absence of some of the influential members of the government, the reparations issue is being fought out in the press.

As a result of last Sunday's note to France, the Baldwin administration found itself under hot fire from the opposition.

Report Heavy Fighting
LONDON, Aug. 14.—A Central News dispatch from Berlin reports heavy fighting with severe casualties over a wide area between Hamburg and Aix-La Chapelle in Northwestern Germany.

Communists were said to have captured Wilhelmshaven near Hamburg. Elsewhere the Reds sustained heavy losses.

Central News put the casualties in the Aix-La Chapelle fighting at ten communists killed and 100 wounded.

Failure to Complete Highways Is Explained

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 14.—Failure of the California Highway commission to complete a 117-mile link in the Pacific Highway, stretching from Redding to the Oregon line, is due to lack of funds and a policy of completing the highways first, according to R. M. Morton, state highway engineer.

Morton, replying to criticism of the California highway board by the Portland, Ore., Chamber of Commerce, said that the need of paving the Pacific Highway is "painfully apparent" to the highway commissioners, but that the money with which to do the work has not been provided.

W. F. Nixon, secretary of the California Highway commission, said California has already paved more of the road than Oregon and Washington.

Will Appoint Regents For Yountville Home

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 14.—Governor Richardson will have seven additional appointments at his command on August 22, when the terms of all of the members of the board of managers of the Yountville Veterans' Home expire, according to announcement by the secretary of state's office.

The seven members of the board whose terms expire this month are: Captain E. L. Hawk, Sacramento; Harry E. Spees, San Francisco; A. D. Forstner, Oakland; Sam H. Danks, San Francisco; Hugh M. Burke, San Francisco; and J. C. Currier, San Francisco, and E. B. Hinman, Lodi.

Ask Levies to Build Mother Lode Highway

JACKSON (Amador Co.) Aug. 14.—A communication has been received by the Board of Supervisors from the Mother Lode Highway association asking the board to make provision in their coming tax levy for an appropriation to assist in financing the campaign to secure construction of the Mother Lode Highway.

The Mother Lode Highway bill was vetoed by Governor Richardson and it is planned to place the measure on the initiative at the next general election.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—The right of the Electro-Metals Company of San Francisco to appropriate water from the Klamath river for its power project at Ishi Pishi Falls will be tested in the State Supreme Court, it was announced today by George Neale, executive officer of the State Fish and Game commission.

Tattooing Advocated for All Married Men

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Tattoo all married men, making the process part of the marriage ceremony, so that innocent girls cannot be tricked by men with family ties.

That's the plea of Miss Marjorie E. Phillips, of Beaver Falls, Pa., blond, fair and 22, co-responder in the sensational divorce action launched by Mrs. Jerome B. Powers, of Lowville, against her husband.

"There should be a law compelling all married men to be marked or tattooed as part of the marriage ceremony, so that poor, innocent lonely-hearted girls would not get into trouble," is Miss Phillips' belief, emphatically expressed. Miss Phillips affirms that she was tricked and deluded.

Mrs. Powers, however, asserts that Miss Phillips was a professional home wrecker and "that many wives in Lowville had cause for worry because of her. 'I am not the first woman in this town to learn that her husband has been cutting up with this Phillips woman,' said Mrs. Powers, 'but I am the first one to really mean business and to show her up.'"

Georges Plan to Halt Careless Use of Name

CLINTON, Ia., Aug. 14.—If your name is George and you don't like the way that appellation has been bandied about since the illustrious St. George went out and did his stuff among the dread dragons of old-time Britain, just tell your grievances to George W. Dulany.

Mr. Dulany—or we'll call him "George" because he likes it—George little fancied seven years ago, when he started his movement for the prevention of calling porters "George," that it would reach such huge proportions. Now members of the society claim it has a membership of more than 10,000, and among those are many whose patronymics are not to be jested with.

It's a national movement, according to George—George Dulany, we mean—and growing bigger day by day. George Cohan, George Ade and other Georges were original boosters for the movement whose sponsors now include King George V. of Great Britain, according to George—George Dulany, we mean. General George Goethals is honorary vice-president; George T. Dexter is honorary treasurer (and there's a catch in that if we may believe George—George Dulany, we mean); and George Ade is poet laureate.

Bones May Be Those of Polynesian Race

HONOLULU, Aug. 14.—Evidence of a former civilization on the now uninhabited islands to the northwest of the Hawaiian group were found recently by members of the United States Government of the party which is conducting an extensive biological and geologic survey of these rarely visited dots in the Pacific. As a result of these recent findings there may come at last the answer to the question of the origin of the Polynesian race.

On Necker Island, as well as on other islands of the northwestern group, caves, dug into the sides of sheer cliffs which had evidently formed the homes of a once numerous race, were located by the explorers. The largest of the caves was about fifteen feet wide and eight feet deep. In several were found a number of stone implements and bowls, and in one cave, at a depth of twelve inches, two thigh bones and a shin bone, comparatively modern, were dug up.

TUJUNGA SURVEY ORDERED ON CANYON ROAD

Region of Scenic Wonders
Will Be Opened Up by Improved Highway

The first step toward improving the road into Big Tujunga canyon has been taken by the supervisors, who have instructed the county surveyor to survey the road and establish an official location.

Big Tujunga canyon, the entrance to which lies on the outskirts of Tujunga directly north of the town, is a scenic and camping ground visited by thousands every year. The road has never been in good condition at any time, yet these thousands brave the ruts and chuck-holes in order to enjoy the natural beauty of one of California's most picturesque mountain retreats. Even under the adverse road conditions the fame of this canyon has spread, and with a new road of comfortable grade and dimensions the travel will be increased to an incalculable degree, benefiting the entire valley and bringing countless visitors through adjacent territory and communities, just as the county park at Sunland has done.

C. O. C. to Co-operate
In connection with this road improvement program to be made up of the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce at its regular meeting tonight will probably be influenced to allow improvements on a connecting street, that will carry traffic by an easy grade to the entrance of the canyon. The natural conclusion of that question is Monte Vista boulevard, which follows the natural contour of the land from a point at Michigan avenue just east of the business center, through the residence and part of the business sections on an easy grade that is practically no grade at all, to a point near the entrance to the canyon just north of town.

This route would segregate canyon traffic from through traffic before it entered the business section and reduce thereby the congestion that is increasing in that section from Sunday and holiday travel.

Open Scenic Region
Work on this important road, which will, no doubt, form a link connecting the valley with Acton, via the foothills, on a short cut to the north in the not far distant future, has been delayed by the uncertainty concerning what action would be taken in the dam building project that would open in a lawsuit in court. Now that the city of Los Angeles has abandoned the plans for building a water supply reservoir in this canyon, a permanent road will no doubt be constructed, opening up for extensive travel a great natural scenic region.

This, together with the policing of the canyon already undertaken by the supervisors and the proposed building of comfort stations, will greatly enhance one of the valley's most valuable assets.

Reduce Fire Hazard
Deputy Fire Warden James Blaine has taken steps to reduce the fire hazard and expedite the extinction of any blazes that may occur by appointing the following men as squad captains: John A. Caldwell, George L. Aiken, Richard J. Smith, A. J. Scribner and E. W. Clark. They have all had experience in fighting brush fires and have the ability to intelligently direct the work of the volunteers.

A five room bungalow has been completed on Palm avenue for Mr. Adams, of the Pacific South-west Trust & Savings bank at Los Angeles. He and his family will make their home there.

Leo L. Lang of the Tujunga Valley Land company is interested with Mr. Fischer and others in a subdivision at Long Beach and is spending most of his time there for the present. He was in Tujunga last week.

I. H. Hubbell, cabinet maker, reported a collision of two automobiles in Los Angeles, in which he and his car acted as the well-known parties of the second part when a large touring car struck his machine while he was driving on Rowan avenue. No one in Mr. Hubbell's car was hurt, although the car was considerably damaged, and the other car and occupants left the scene as though they had not seen anything. A previous engagement of a pressing nature.

Cyclist Is Uninjured When Auto Hits Wheel

Edgar Stephenson of 2815 Evelyn Brink road, Los Angeles, escaped injury about 7:15 o'clock last night when his bicycle was struck by an automobile. Edward R. Best of 605 West Lexington drive was the driver of the car.

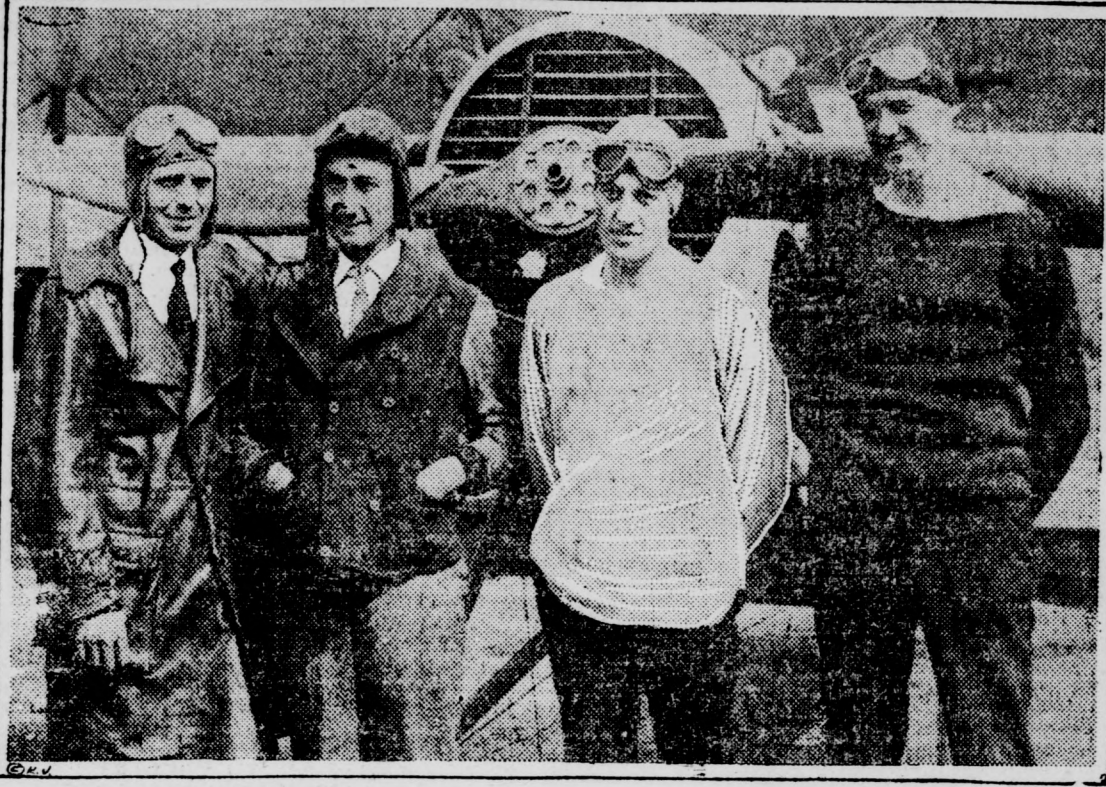

"The boy on the wheel," stated Mr. Best, "rode in front of my machine as I was turning from Los Feliz road into Gardena avenue."

AMERICAN COLORS TO APPEAR IN BIG AIR CONTEST

Four Aviators From America Will Take Part In Races In England

Left to right, Lieut. R. Irvine, Lieut. F. W. Wead; Lieut. D. Rittenhouse and Lieut. A. W. Gordon. Four aviators will represent the U. S. navy in the Schneider cup races in England. The four lieutenants will fly America's speediest seaplanes. The air derby will start at the Isle of Wight. It is a blue ribbon event for service men.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14—Cognizant of the grim race among the world powers for air supremacy, congress next winter will be asked to increase the army air service appropriation nearly 100 per cent, it has been learned. Estimates totalling $25,000,000 have been approved by Major-General Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service, and a determined fight is to be waged, not only to obtain that amount for the next fiscal year but to insure that appropriations of like size will be forthcoming in the future. An aerial force of 2500 planes, 4,000 officers, 2500 flying cadets and 25,000 enlisted men is the ultimate goal.

Failure of congress to grant adequate appropriations for promotion of aviation, officials stated, has stifled and stunted the air service to a point where it bids fair to become impotent as a material factor in national defense. The United States at present has but 450 airplanes available for combat as compared with the 2,000 France will be able to mobilize.

MIND POWER IS SPEAKER'S TOPIC

Applied Psychology Basis of Lecture, First in Series
To Be Given Here

"Mind Power" was the subject of a lecture delivered last night in the auditorium of the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse by I. D. Budd, president of the University of Psychological Research, Los Angeles.

Mr. Budd stated at the outset of his remarks that he would carry the audience to a mental height, from which vantage point broad vistas of the mind-world might be glimpsed. This he did by gradual and easily comprehended steps, supplementing his talk by references to a large electrically illuminated chart.

Just as great progress has been made in the physical world, in the past few decades, so great progress is now being made in the mind-world, Mr. Budd showed his audience, and startling developments can be expected in the decades immediately ahead. Psychology, as we know it today, the speaker stated is a development of the past fifteen years; while applied psychology, which is an attempt to rationalize the processes of life and adjust them to harmonious co-operation with the great natural laws, is a development almost of the past five years, with a future that lies all ahead.

Three Races of Men
Mr. Budd took the audience back 9,000 years, showing them, from the high mental plateau he had helped them to reach, a panorama of Europe, Asia and Africa at that remote time. There were originally, he said, three races of men—the Nordic, from western Europe; the Alpine, from Asia; and the Mediterranean, from Italy, Greece, Asia Minor and the north coast of Africa.

In the hundreds of centuries that have rolled by since then, he showed, these three original races have so thoroughly blended that it is no longer possible to distinguish characteristics and personality by a study of outward features; that, rather, one must today study inward features, namely the mind, if one would analyze characteristics and personality.

Psychology, he said, is merely the study of the mind, whereas applied psychology is study of the mind with a view to developing the same and making the possessor a happier, healthier and more efficient member of the human family.

Mr. Budd, by means of his chart, showed the audience that the mind is really two minds, a conscious and subconscious mind. The latter is the seat of memory, the reservoir where all impressions of the outside world are poured, never to be lost, but not always brought to the surface at will.

Power to Stimulate
It is the purpose of applied psychology to stimulate this subconscious mind, this "You" as the speaker calls it, with the object of making it yield up its treasures more readily. He stated that the University of Applied Psychology plans to train 1,000,000 men and women, throughout America, in the next three years. The course, he said, covers a year—100 lessons and thirty weekly meetings, divided into three semesters of ten meetings each.

There will be another lecture at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse tonight, and a third and fourth lecture Thursday and Friday nights, August 16 and 17.

Pasadena Holds Low Death Rate Among Children

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 14.—With California holding fourth place in the nation for low infant mortality rate, Pasadena, according to an American Child Health association report, leads the state with the lowest mortality among infants since 1910. The report reveals that in Los Angeles between 1910 and 1915, an average of 80 babies in every 1,000 died, while between 1916 and 1920 only 71 of each 1,000 failed to survive.

San Bernardino leads the state, the report shows, in the highest death rate, with 118 out of 1,000 failing to live.

PUBLIC INTEREST IN NEW BUICK

Four-Wheel Brake Is Big Feature; Everyone Is Invited to Ride

Public interest in the new 1924 Buick motor cars, which are now on display at the Tanner & Hall, Ltd., agency, 237 South Brand boulevard, is most marked, according to R. L. Galvin, sales manager.

Enthusiasm is expressed for the four-wheel brake, while the riding qualities of the car are superb, according to those who have had a demonstration. An invitation to everyone in Glendale to have a ride in the latest Buick creation has been publicly extended and a large response has been accorded the firm.

"The demonstrations are winning many new friends," says Mr. Galvin, who asks the public to call for a ride in the new car between the hours of 9 and 5 daily.

Charge Is Dismissed For Lack of Evidence

Lack of sufficient evidence this morning in the court of Harry W. Chase, justice of the peace for Burbank township, resulted in the dismissal of Arthur D. Akins of Sunland on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder. He was represented by Attorney James F. McBryde.

W. A. Rittman, the complaining witness, alleged that Akins drew a knife on him during a tussle. Other witnesses denied seeing the weapon, but testified Akins said "I'll get you yet," when he was separated from Rittman, who was the larger man.

BICYCLE DAMAGED

BURBANK BOULEVARD PLAN GIVEN APPROVAL

Direct Link With Riverside
Drive to Be Submitted
To Commissioners

A movement is on foot to make Lake street a direct boulevard to Riverside drive. The matter of a route from Turkey crossing to the Los Angeles river has been gone over by property owners and engineers, with a prominent official of the Southern Pacific railway, and has been declared feasible.

To further the movement, there will be a meeting at the J. W. Fawkes residence, 140 West Olive avenue, at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, August 16, when it is understood that a Lake Street Improvement association will be formed.

County and Planning Commission officials have been invited to attend this meeting, and all others interested are urged to be present, as important steps in the movement will be taken.

It is reported that practically all property owners from the crossing to the river have agreed to yield a right-of-way sufficient to make an eighty-foot boulevard, laid with a twenty-two foot pavement of six-inch concrete; and that the laying of this pavement, with the necessary grading, can be done for $1.55 per front foot.

Predicts Approval
Hugh Pomeroy, secretary of the County Regional Planning commission, speaks very favorably of the proposition, saying it will meet with the approval of the commission. And G. E. Howland, of the county road department, has been over the proposed boulevard with Henry W. Wright, county supervisor, and they both favor the idea.

In view of the fact that Lake street has just been opened up from Olive avenue to Magnolia avenue, the project is brought just that much nearer its goal, promoters claim, stating that such a connection between Burbank and Riverside drive, which is to be one of the most beautiful in the world, will be of great value to this city.

Summer School Over
Burbank's initial summer session of the public school system closed Thursday, August 9, after a most successful season, according to Miss Farrar, principal of the Edison school, who was superintendent.

A total of 127 children attended the states, thirty-one under Mrs. Perkins, who had first to third grades; thirty-three under Mrs. Akins, fourth and fifth; thirty-one under Miss Farrar, fifth and sixth; and thirty-two under Miss Brown, seventh and eighth.

The children were divided very evenly between boys and girls, Miss Farrar states. Results show that twenty-six children moved up a half year as a result of the summer session, while thirty-three were enabled to continue with their class in September.

Financially, results show that $1950 was saved, at a cost of $500, which leads to the belief that the summer session will be a yearly institution in Burbank, henceforth.

The fall school term opens September 11.

AIDS NEWCOMERS TO FIND HOUSES

Goodman Rental Agency Has Located Several
New Families Here

Mrs. Stella Goodman, through her rental agency, has recently assisted a number of newcomers in finding comfortable homes and residents in making convenient changes.

Mrs. Ray Berthick has moved from 340 West Lexington drive to the attractive colonial flats recently completed at 809 North Central avenue.

G. E. Collingwood, a newcomer from St. Catherine, twelve miles from Niagara Falls, N. Y., has located at the De Luxe apartments. Mr. Collingwood's former home was in a fruit center but he is willing to acknowledge that in fruit production, it is quite outclassed, in quantity if not in quality, by what he has seen this season. He came first to Los Angeles but having no desire to locate in a large city, he visited the Chamber of Commerce and asked to be directed to a live town, not too far distant from their recommendation he came to Glendale, and expects to remain permanently.

'Bessem' Is Missing! Have You Seen Her?

"Bessem" is gone! And little Marjorie Johnson of 109 South Cedar street is in tears. For "Bessem" is a miniature collie, one of those cute little toy dogs that make a "reglar" playmate for a four year old child. It has short legs, but long hair. It weighs ten pounds and is just getting a second set of teeth. Mrs. Alta Johnson states the dog is yellow brown with white markings on the neck and breast. She offers a reward for its return, believing it to have strayed into some kindly person's care while the family was away last week. She advertises for the finder to phone Glendale 1280-J. Oh, yes, "Bessem" is a lady.

TRANSLATE WIRE FROM POLYNESIA

Knudson's South Sea Message Not in Native Tongue, Says Missionary

One thing leads to another, says an old saw, and such was the case in the search here for someone who was conversant with the languages spoken in the Polynesian group of islands in the South Seas.

J. T. Knudson had received a code message from his brother at Papeete, Tahiti, which he suspected was in the language of the land. Investigation revealed it to be code, but it was first determined to find out if it was native spelling.

Rev. and Mrs. B. J. Cady, returned missionaries of the Seventh-day Adventist church, who reside on Sinclair avenue, were discovered to have spent seventeen years in spreading the gospel in the Society Islands of the Polynesian group.

Make Translations
The Cads understand the language, having translated hymn books and religious literature into the alphabet of thirteen letters with eight consonants and five vowels.

They were quick in assurance that the message Mr. Knudson received was not Polynesian, but they are expecting to have a visit with T. P. Knudson, the author and adventurer, when he returns from Papeete with the "latest news."

His brother here at the Pendroy store states that his adventuresome kin made the trip in search for material which will soon be found in magazines to which he contributes.

Cutlery manufacture at Sheffield, England, has been so low that even the sale of stainless knives fell off.

Composer Braves Death To Absorb Inca Music; Heads Department In Film Concern

By GIL A. COWAN
SEÑOR CARLOS VALDERRAMA, who will be director of music and ethnology for the South American Productions Company which J. Barstow Budworth is incorporating here and plans to make Glendale his North American film headquarters for a period of five years, has had a most interesting career.

Although practically unknown in this country, according to Mr. Budworth, Valderrama has won notable distinction in his native land for his interesting concerts of Inca music. During the war he entertained the soldiers and only recently has been appearing on the concert stage with his own compositions.

Gifted Imagination
In a sketch given the writer by Mr. Budworth regarding this unusual South American, the following is noted:

"Valderrama has a forceful and attractive personality linked with a gifted imagination. Of a musical family, one also distinguished in political affairs in South America, Carlos Valderrama was born in Peru in 1892. His father was mayor, judge and president of the university at Trujillo, as well as a member of congress.

"It was parental intention for young Carlos to become a business man and they sent him to the United States to be trained as an electrical engineer. On completing his course at Cornell university, he returned to Peru to take up the work planned for him, but soon found that the call for music was stronger than that of engineering.

"The wisdom of his decision to investigate the unknown field of Inca music is apparent, for he has given to the world a new contribution to musical art. And it is no small wonder that Valderrama treasures his find of Inca music, for his search for it was a difficult one—at times almost heart-breaking.

"In order to feel the spirit of the music he was obliged to live with the native Peruvian Indians the descendants of the Incas, for two years. It was only after offering large sums of money that he secured two guides who were willing to brave with him the dangers of the forests of Cajamarca. He sought the tribes in the farthest reaches of the mountains, where access to the natives was to be had only on foot.

"The journey, according to the senior's account, was an arduous one, for in order to make any progress the composer had to bind his feet with rags to keep them from slipping on the marshy ground. He lived chiefly on berries he found along the way, and for weeks did not glimpse the sun because of the density of the forests.

Other Hardships
"The young composer suffered other hardships, including a severe fever, such as prevails among the natives in the swamps, and one of his guides died of disease. The other was killed by a poisoned arrow because in jest he took food that had been offered to one of the native gods.

"Yet Señor Valderrama was so fascinated by these simple child-like people," according to Mr. Budworth, "that he remained in their midst, composed the wild, pagan music and colored it with the imagery of the cloudless blue sky, the star-spangled dome of nights in Peru and wove into his

CHURCH BUILDING NEARLY FINISHED

New Presbyterian Edifice to Be Ready by November, Says Contractor

The Presbyterian church on the northwest corner of Harvard and Louise streets is rapidly nearing completion. Robert Bird, superintendent of construction for Architect Robert H. Orr of Los Angeles, stated yesterday that the structure will undoubtedly be finished before the first of November unless something unforeseen prevents a continuance of the present progress.

The Sunday school department is scheduled for completion next month so that classes can be transferred there the first of October. This section of the building is now completed except for the laying of the Oregon pine floor on the first floor.

Lights Are Changed
Owing to changes in the plans and the substitution of three large electric lights for ten small ones, the wiring of the auditorium has not been completed by the J. A. Newton Electric Company of 156 South Brand boulevard, but it is expected that this will be finished soon.

As soon as the wiring has been completed, the work of plastering the auditorium will be commenced. W. A. Keen of 1146 Thompson street holds the sub-contract for this job. He estimates that he can do it in three weeks. The basement of the church is finished already.

The tower is now up to a height of ninety feet. This is the floor level of the clock room. The tower proper will rise to a height of 108 feet. An octagonal spire upon each corner will raise the height sixteen feet higher. The height from the pavement to the tip of the spires, therefore, will be 130 feet.

The Seth-Thomas clock, which

NEW L. A. CHARTER TOPIC AT LUNCH

Borough Government Will Be Discussed by Experts at Public Meet

The borough form of government for the Los Angeles metropolitan district will be the topic discussed at luncheon on "Suburban Day," Wednesday, August 15, at the Los Angeles City club, it being a public meeting.

Dr. E. Bennett Munro, professor of civics, Harvard University, will lead the speaking. Dr. John C. Shedd, of Occidental College, will analyze the questionnaire ballot taken last winter.

Following these addresses, there will be general discussion, announces Wylys S. Abbot, chairman of the Inter-City Suburban committee of the Los Angeles City club.

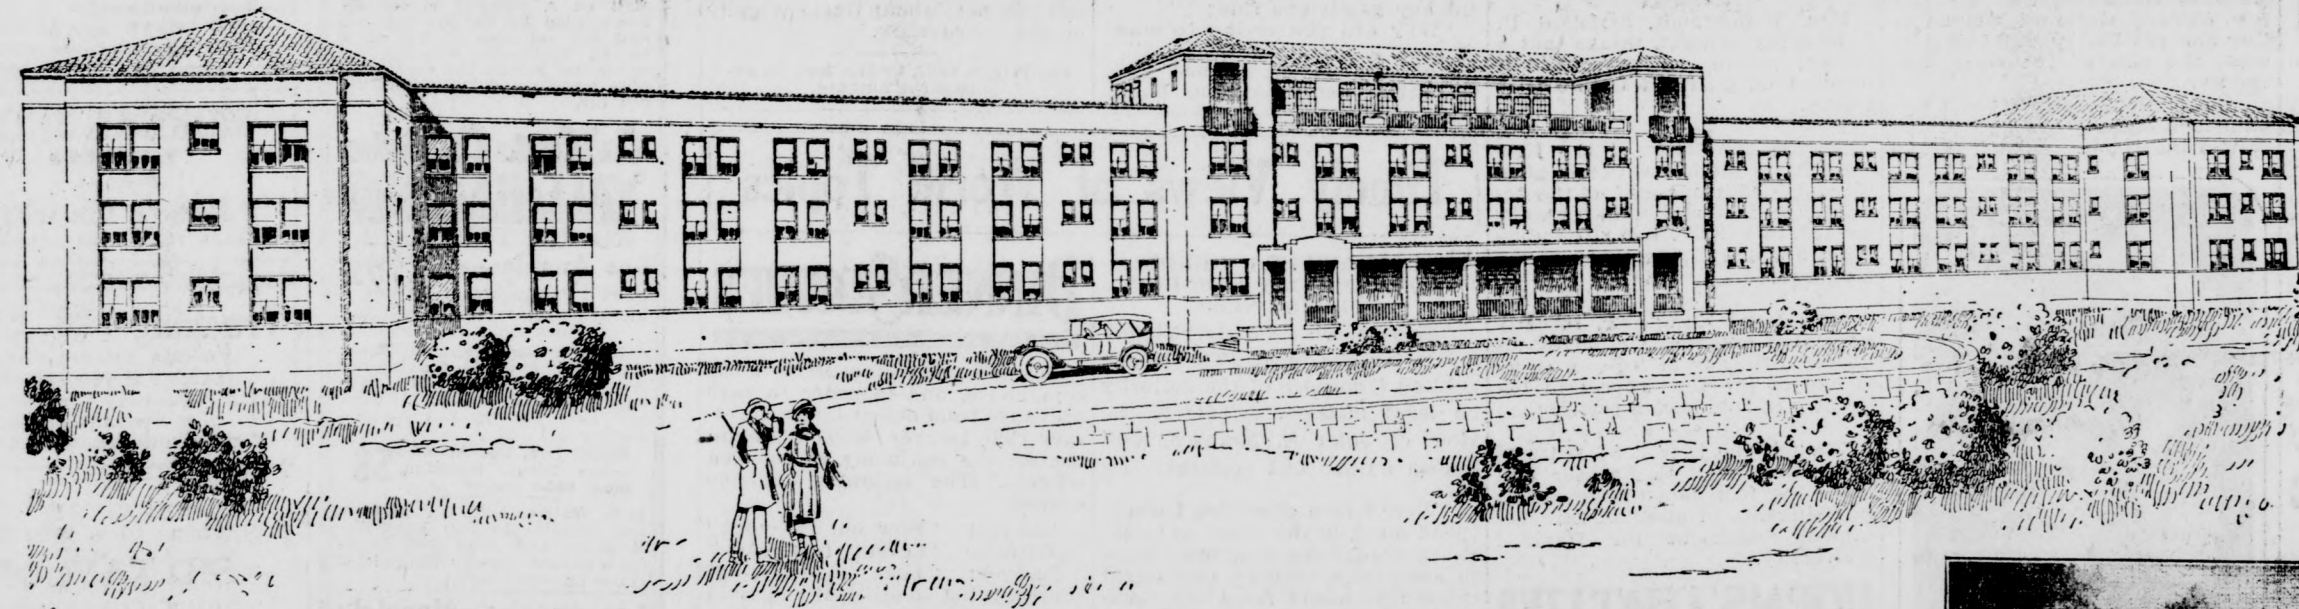

"If interested in a charter for Los Angeles which will encourage the co-operation of the civic enterprise of the entire metropolitan district, to the upbuilding and proper government of the future great metropolis Los Angeles is bound to be, come!" urges Mr. Abbot.

The luncheon will be held in the main dining hall of the club, Eighth street and Broadway, Los Angeles, the noon hour, Wednesday of this week.

TODAY—"Greater San Francisco"; To Extend Western City; City Street Lines Success.

TOMORROW—Tourists Again in Ireland; The Irish Political Outlook, by Daniel O'Connell, Dublin Correspondent.

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
For International News Service

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Greater San Francisco may soon be a proper appellation for the western metropolis by the Golden Gate.

A movement has been started for the annexation on the "borough plan" of the down the peninsula centers of population which will add greatly to the city's population and facilitate the growth of the center of population down the peninsula.

Six large boroughs—San Mateo, Burlingame, Hillsborough, San Bruno, South San Francisco and Colma—would be affected by the plan, which originates with the Three Cities Chamber of Commerce.

The movement will not be carried through without opposition, Hillsborough and Burlingame are known as "millionaire colonies" and their annexation to San Francisco would bring into the city two of the richest residence districts in the United States.

The movement is expected to be met by the city's residents of the two communities who are expected to protest vigorously against any action that would bring their palatial residences within the city limits.

Proponents of the movement, however, point out that the consolidation would be of vast benefit in the development of the peninsula. It would enable the city of San Francisco to extend its municipal car lines down the peninsula and provide rapid transit much needed for peninsula development and the extension of the San Francisco water front as far as San Mateo, adding miles of good manufacturing territory and increasing to an almost unlimited extent the opportunity for pier construction.

Speaking of the municipal car lines brings to notice the fact that the San Francisco "Muni" system last year transported 73,633,760 passengers without a fatal accident. This was 2,875,852 passengers more than that reported for the previous fiscal year. This showed a healthy growth of the Muni system and was principally new business, as but one small extension was made during the past year. Under the municipal system of ownership of principal lines the carfare has remained at five cents in San Francisco.

In addition to its municipal power lines San Francisco shortly will enter the business of distributing electrical power if recommendations of the public utilities committee of the Board of Supervisors are carried out. The great Shaughnessy dam of the mighty Hetch Hetchy water project designed to afford San Francisco an unending supply of pure mountain water has been completed and from its overflow mighty turbines soon will be turning the mountain streams into electrical energy. The public utilities committee decided unanimously that the city should dispose of this electrical energy direct to the consumer. The matter will meet with opposition from some members of the board of supervisors, who hold that the cost of an electrical distribution system at this time would be too great a burden for the city to bear. However, the proponents of public ownership are pointing out that the people have time and again voted in favor of such a policy and are expected to authorize necessary bonds. It is proposed to purchase one or the other of two private systems of power distribution now operating in the city.

If the city enters into the power distribution business it will be one of its own largest consumers, as the municipal car system uses a large amount of power now privately purchased. Within a few years the city will own all of its utilities. Steps already have been taken toward the purchase of the property of the Market Street Railway Company, which now operates in competition with the municipal street car lines. In addition there is an understanding whereby within a few years the city will take over the Spring Valley Water Company.

Billy Wilkerson

We left Nannie dreadfully frightened for fear Billy was killed.

When Billy did not crawl from under it and show himself, Nannie thought he must have been struck by the mast and killed. At last she heard a woman cry out, "Oh, look! look! See that goat swimming in the river with something hanging around his neck! What can it be?"

"A man! A man!" exclaimed the crowd, and then all eyes were fastened upon Billy until a man in a rowboat went out to help him and they saw him swim out of sight into the slip for safety.

On seeing this, Nannie dove off the high sidewalk where she stood and began to swim the river to reach her Billy. It came near being her last swim, for the river was wide and the current strong. As Billy stood with his back to the opening of the cut, he did not see her in the water until he heard a splash and a weak voice say, "Billy!" He turned just in time to see poor Nannie drop at his feet from exhaustion. But after a little rest she was all right again and the bridge tender, who had now become Billy's friend for life for saving him, came over to the place where the two goats stood, and offered them something to eat and coax them home with him. The three of them grew to be the best of friends and the bridge man never tired to recounting how Billy had saved his life.

Billy and Nannie found the man lived in the poorest part of the city, called Shanty Town, as not a regular house could be seen for three or four blocks. All were shanties, sheds or tents set right down on ashes, sand or mud ground filled with tin cans and rubbish, as this section was built on a made embankment.

The bridge tender had found a piece of rope in the bottom of the rowboat, and had tied the two goats together so they could not run away from him as he led them to his little home.

His wife was hanging out clothes as he approached their shanty, and when she turned and saw her husband leading two big white goats, water dripping from their coats as well as dripping off her husband, she simply stared at them, too much surprised to speak.

"Sure, and where did ye pick up thim animals, Mike?" at last she asked.

"Wait until I tell 'em up and I'll be after telling ye," he answered. (Tomorrow you will be told about the Hooligan gang.)

RADIO

BY FRANK CHAPMAN

GETTING OUT ON ONE TUBE

It has been the opinion of fans that it was necessary to use power tubes on a continuous wave transmitting set, but a prominent amateur of Maryland, 3AJD, has rigged up a radiophone transmitting set, using an ordinary amplifying tube.

The step-up transformer delivers 350 and 500 volts for the plate supply and eight for filament lighting, so it may be used with regular power tubes. When using a receiving tube (amplifier) the 350-volt tap of the transformer is used, as 500 volts heats the plate too much. Additional resistance is inserted in the filament circuit.

to bring that voltage down to normal for receiving tubes. An early type of De Forest tube is used, although other types of amplifying tubes were successfully used in recent tests.

The main inductance is wound on the old familiar Quaker Oats box and consists of twenty turns of bell wire tapped at intervals. The grid coil, which is wound on a piece of wood two inches long by one and one-half inches wide, and consists of fifteen turns of the same kind of wire, wound in the opposite direction to that of the main coil.

A large variable condenser, an early type Stone condenser, made about twenty years ago, was used, which, while not much good for receiving purposes, makes a fine C. W. transmitting condenser.

The grid condenser is the usual microfarad condenser of .00025 microfarad capacity while the grid leak is of 5000 ohms.

ence was noticed in either method. 2 of an ampere radiation was obtained with the receiving tube with 350 volts on the plate and 1.4 amperes with a five-watt power tube and 500 volts on the plate.

To test your modulation it is only necessary to listen in on your receiving set while talking, no connection to the aerial being required for your receiving set. If the speech can be understood in your head telephones, it is getting out and you can communicate with friends in your city without any trouble.

Pointers The long distances you hear covered on one tube are generally done early in the morning.

The ordinary six-ohm rheostat is not suitable for the new, low-current tubes.

An amplifying panel consists of transformer, socket and rheostat. A condenser and leak are not used.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Miss Violet McDougal of Sapulpa, Okla., was recently appointed "poet laureate" of that state by Governor J. C. Walton. The appointment was received on June 21, this year, and was prompted by the efforts of various women's clubs in Oklahoma and through the Writers' Guild of Oklahoma City and the Poetry Guild of Norman, the site of the state university.

Miss McDougal's first poem was published eight years ago in the New York Times. A book of 150

"I believe that more music, art and poetry and less history and languages in the schools would be more to the point," she says. She does not favor bobbed hair.

INTERESTING GOSSIP ABOUT WOMEN

Mrs. Willbrandt, assistant U. S. attorney general, thinks that a federal prison for women will have to be provided in the near future.

Marian K. Clark of the New York State Industrial Commission estimates that one-half of the accidents in factories, with a resultant loss of $50,000 a day to industries, are due to ignorance of the language.

Miss Irene Nungesser, recently appointed assistant United States district attorney at Toledo, Ohio, is one of the few women in the country to hold such a position.

Though she is past 86 years of age, Mrs. Mary E. Spencer will scale the San Jacinto mountains in California in quest of rare botanical specimens for Harvard University.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Tonight Mysterious night! when our first parents knew Thee from report divine, and heard thy name, Did he not tremble for this lovely frame;

This glorious canopy of light and dew; Bathed in the rays of the great setting flame? Hesperus with the host of heaven came, And lo! Creation widened in man's view.

Who could have thought such darkness lay concealed Within thy beams, O Sun! or who could find, Whilst thy leaf and insect stood revealed, That to such countless orbs thou mad'st us blind!

Why do we then shun death with anxious strife? If Light can thus deceive, wherefore not Life? —Joseph Blanco White.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGLY'S ICE CREAM CONE

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggily was hopping along the path through the forest that led to the little village of Woodland, the rabbit gentleman saw Jackie and Peetle Bow Wow, the puppy dog chaps. They were just ahead of him, running as fast as their little legs would take them.

"Why are you in such a hurry, Jackie and Peetle?" asked the bunny rabbit.

Jackie and Peetle stopped, turned around, wagged their tails and then barked:

"How wow!"

"Where are you going in such a hurry?" asked Uncle Wiggily again.

"We are going down to the store to get there before all the ice cream cones melt," answered Jackie. "It is such a hot day that they may all melt before we get there."

"But I tell him it doesn't do any good to hurry," whined Peetle, "cause we haven't any five-cent pieces with which to buy ice cream cones. So what's the good?"

"Well, maybe somebody will give us five cents when we get there, suggested Jackie. "Come on, Peetle! Hurry before the ice cream all melts!"

Then Uncle Wiggily smiled. And Uncle Wiggily twinkled his pink nose, and Uncle Wiggily said:

"Come along with me, boys. I am going to buy an ice cream cone for myself, and I will buy one for each of you."

"Oh, goodie!" cried Peetle.

"See, I told you some one would give us five cents!" barked Jackie, and he wagged his tail so hard that he nearly wagged it off.

Then the doggie boys went with Uncle Wiggily to the place where a dear, jolly old monkey gentleman sold ice cream cones from a red wagon with blue wheels.

"Three of your very largest, coldest ice cream cones!" ordered Uncle Wiggily, stopping at the red wagon with blue wheels.

Jackie and Peetle sat up on their hind legs and their red tongues lolled out of their mouths.

I have some very fine ice cream cones, made especially large for hungry doggie boys," said the monkey gentleman, "and you shall also have one, Uncle Wiggily."

So the monkey gentleman filled three of the sugar water cones with ice cream from a can, and Jackie and Peetle began eating the frozen cream from the large top parts of their cones.

But Uncle Wiggily seemed to be having trouble. At first Jackie and Peetle did not pay much attention to him, but at last the monkey gentleman said:

"Why are you trying to stand on your head, Uncle Wiggily?"

And, truly, that seemed what the rabbit gentleman was doing.

MORE LAWYERS NEEDED—TO DRIVE OUT UNSCRUPULOUS ONES

"There is a law for the rich and a law for the poor. The reason is blind ignorance of the majority on legal matters." This is the view of John A. Morosco, well known author and socialist. He says:

"Were I man of wealth I would spend much in the effort to establish a graduating year law course in every high school. One might think this would flood the country with a fresh horde of lawyers every year, but the effect would be just the opposite. Thousands of shyster lawyers who make fortunes at the expense of the ignorant would starve to death, for the average young man and woman would have a knowledge of at least the rudiments of law. The drawing of a complaint, of an answer, of a deed or of a will, the rights of a citizen to secure and summon witnesses make big income for the shysters. Few of us know that printed forms needing only to be filled out intelligently can be bought for a few pennies in almost any stationery store and this legal work accomplished. Then, too, the high charges of these gentry would not be accepted blindly. Nor could we be so frequently tricked and lied to as we are now."

Link buttons have been patented that will be inserted in the eyes of women's laced shoes to convert them into buttoned ones to conform to fashion's demands.

Lawyer: "How old are you?" Witness: "Seventy-two years." Lawyer: "Your memory, of course, is not so brilliant and vivid as it was twenty years ago, is it?" Witness: "I do not know but what it is."

Lawyer: "State some circumstances which occurred, say, twenty years ago, and we shall be able to see how well you can remember."

Witness: "I appeal to your honor if I am to be interrogated in this manner; it is insolent."

Judge: "You had better answer the question."

Lawyer: "Yes, sir, state it." Witness: "Well, sir, if you compel me to do it, I will. About twenty years ago you studied in Judge Brown's office, did you not?"

Lawyer: "Yes."

Witness: "Well, sir, I remember your father coming into my office and saying to me, 'Mr. Jones, my son is to be examined tomorrow, and I wish you would lend me twenty-five dollars to buy him a new suit of clothes.' I remember, also, from that day to this he has not paid me that money. That, sir, I remember just as

Albert's Path
Today's Short Story, by Ad Schuster

When the challenge was delivered Captain Donald, friend of Raoul Druy, bowed politely, a great anger in his heart. The end of Black Orloff departed and the captain swore savagely and kicked his huge boots against the hearth.

"It is a trap," he repeated. "They have marked Raoul as one more on the list of Noonzig men to be murdered. Well, we shall see it through."

Noonzig and Wrentling, once enemy states, were bound together by treaties which were everywhere proclaimed. But among the old order in Wrentling there was bitterness because of the prominence won by younger men of the smaller country. Then had appeared Black Orloff with his challenges at swordplay and, one by one, a dozen of the Noonzig youth who had found abode across the line had been killed or sent back home in sore distress. Orloff, it was whispered, had an uncanny gift at fencing. There were other stories and, indeed, laws which would justify refusal to meet the man.

These stories Captain Donald repeated to Raoul.

"The say he wears a vest of mail and they say, too, if any man were skillful or fortunate enough to wound him, the others would make complaint to the duke under the duelling law. When one fights Orloff he fights the duke, and has no chance to win. For my sake, Raoul, go back to Noonzig."

Raoul Druy looked his friend in the eyes and smiled. "You have said what you have said, but you know I won't go. It is possible Orloff will meet his match this time. Tell him I will meet him in the meadow at the north end of the lake." To the captain's questioning look the young man replied, "Tell him I will meet him there, or no place."

There was dew on the grass in the early morning when Raoul, with his throat bared and his sword rolled up, crossed swords with the sneering and confident Orloff. And, apparently, there were none to see but Captain Donald and an angular second of the elder swordsman. Doubtless there were other Wrentling men hidden within call, for it was not Orloff's way to overlook a chance.

The swords met each other warily at first. Then Captain Donald, who knew his friend's skill and methods, was surprised to see that Raoul was stepping back, parrying and worrying the other occasionally by a thrust, but giving way. The grass was too slippery for this and Orloff was quick to see his advantage. There came a furious assault which all but carried the day, for Raoul was sorely taxed to make defence. His retreat now was more rapid and not once did he essay a thrust. Captain Donald wondered and feared.

"What, do you fear me?" Orloff, his eyes gleaming, prepared for the finish.

Here it was Raoul held his ground and turned retreat into attack, defeat for victory. Suddenly he exhibited all of the skill of a master swordsman. Orloff, baffled and bewildered, fought doggedly until his antagonist's blade found place in his neck, above that vest of mail which was so treacherously concealed.

The story of the villainous Orloff ended, but with his fall there came a shout from the tall second. A dozen Wrentling men sprang from a grove and advanced. Raoul and Donald held their place for as good a dozen of Noonzig's youth were waiting. It would be a rare fight now or a parley.

"What's this?" It was Orloff's second who made the demand. "Armed Noonzig men on Wrentling land?"

"Armed Noonzig men, indeed, but on Noonzig land. And you know your history or your map, you know where stand—on the thin strip which was ceded to Albert of Wrentling, after the treaty, that he might find landing on the lake."

Captain Donald smiled. This was why Raoul had failed back. He had placed the duel on Noonzig ground.

"There will be no arrests this time," he said to the second, "unless Noonzig demands it. The murder game of Wrentling has stopped."

Tomorrow—A Matter of Choice.

Side Talks

"SOMETHING TO WRITE HOME ABOUT"

"Thank you so much for taking me to ride. That will be a nice thing to write home about."

So said a small guest of mine when I dropped her after an auto ride at the neighbors where she was staying.

I couldn't help laughing at the naivete of that. She thanked me not for her enjoyment of the ride, but for her enjoyment of the chance to tell someone else about it.

Was She So Different?
And yet, though she was more honest than a grown-up would have been, was her reaction very different from that which so many of us have toward interesting experiences?

We may not admit it to ourselves, but doesn't a very large fraction of our enjoyment of travel, or of the chance to meet distinguished people, or to visit fine houses, or to indulge in some sport with an element of danger in it, consist in our delight in telling about it afterwards?

If you were allowed to take a most interesting trip to some foreign land on the condition that you were never to let anyone know that you had been; never to refer to it in any way afterwards; never to look at a picture and say nonchalantly, "Oh yes! I climbed part way up that mountain when I was in the Alps"; never to join in the talk about European hotels with some personal anecdote; never to thrill your hearers with the story of the tremendous storm at sea and how alarmed even the captain was;—well, how much of your joy would be taken away? One-half? or three-quarters?

BEAUTY CHATS

ANSWERED LETTERS

Reader—The Pilocarpine Tonic acts upon the coloring of the hair in several ways. As it is such an excellent tonic, there is a general building up of the hair and scalp, so the color shares in the restoration; but there is also a direct action upon the color cells. The tonic is not a dye, so you will get no coloring from it. It is so stimulating to a sluggish scalp, however, that all conditions are improved by its use, including the coloring of the hair.

Mrs. John C.—For a person who is short and stout, with a round face and low forehead, there should be as much height attempted through the hair dressing as the whole general effect will admit. The way to test this is to arrange the hair so it is becoming to the face, and then take a new view of yourself before a full-length mirror.

If you have overdone the effect, you will look too heavy, and will need to lower the knot or whatever arrangement you have adopted. Soften the entire hair line around the face, and droop the hair as much as possible below the temples and tops of the ears. Do not puff it out on the sides as this will tend to shorten all your lines again.

Blue Eyes—The crude oil will help cure this tendency to dandruff, but it would be well if you did other things to improve the health of your scalp; for instance a daily vigorous massage. Include with the latter a suitable hair tonic several times each week.

R. L. W.—Usually when the circle around the nails gets ragged and hangnails appear, it is due to a lack of oil or other softening secretion in the skin. In such cases there is immediate relief if oil is applied by massaging cream or a fine oil into the nails, especially into the parts where the nails grow out of the skin.

If you are using a preparation which contains acid for removing the cuticle, it will increase this tendency to hang nails; but you can use these little helps in the home-manicuring if you counteract their bad tendencies, since they are such time savers also.

Never paint the nails with any enamel, as such coatings will also create dryness to the skin and nails. Be sure to feed the skin and nails every day with as much oil as needed until a healthy condition has been assured.

Mrs. P. T.—At fifty years of age, height five feet five inches, you are normal weight at 149. You should be congratulated on the success in your reduction, and general improvement in health and appearance. Use ice rubs every day on the face and throat to harden the skin and tone it.

This should end your treatments after you have written to me of the creams. If you had been doing this during the year of reduction, you would not have this trouble now, but the same perseverance will bring you through this difficulty now.

Tomorrow—Hot Weather and Hair

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a person or persons reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Teeth—No. II
Thorough mastication has to be taught to children right from the start of giving solid foods, by giving small amounts for each mouthful. Later, as the children grow older, it seems to be almost natural for them to gobble. Many times it is because they want to get back to play, their natural occupation.

During this period they should have someone with them while they are eating to see that too large morsels are not taken at a bite, and that they chew their food thoroughly and swallow it before more food is put into the mouth.

They should be made to stay at their meals a certain length of time, irrespective of whether they are finished before that time or not. This will teach them not to hurry up, as they gain nothing by it.

The importance of greens and milk for their vitamins has been shown experimentally upon animals. When fed food containing no greens or milk, the jaw bones will soften, the teeth decay, and a condition similar to pyorrhea will develop.

Having a large element of the hard food which requires mastication is given as one of the reasons for the good teeth of certain primitive peoples.

While we are talking about development of the jaws and the teeth, let me warn you, mothers, about the first permanent molars. Special care should be given that they do not decay, for they are extremely important teeth. They are the heaviest work in chewing, and they serve as a guide for the other permanent teeth to take their proper positions by. Watch these carefully, mothers, because they decay rather easily. If they are pulled they never return. The jaws will shrink and the teeth will come in irregularly.

This is also true of the temporary or deciduous teeth. That is, if they are allowed to decay so permanent teeth may come in irregularly on account of the shrinking of the space. It occasionally happens that a first tooth will not loosen and come out when it should; in this case, of course, it should be pulled to make way for the permanent tooth.

The Gitter Tablets
The iodine tablets for simple gitter which I have mentioned in this column have to be purchased for you by your personal physician, prescribed for you by him and taken under his direction. They are being used with wonderful results.

Japs Warned Against Fruit Law Evasion

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 14.—Following repeated attempts of Japanese to evade the California fruit standardization law, Director G. H. Hecke of the state department of agriculture has issued a warning to the Nipponese fruit growers that they will be severely penalized if they persist in their attempted evasions.

Hecke's warning came on the heels of convictions of two Japanese for violating the state standardization law.

The Matsumoto Fruit Company of Esparto, was fined for attempting to smuggle fifteen crates of green and mouldy grapes into Sacramento.

Among the Kabyles of Algeria only sick men may carry canes.

NEW BY-LAWS TO PRESAGE MERGER

Committees In Preliminary Work to Aid Proposed Consolidation

The committee formed of directors of the two local water companies is at work on a set of by-laws to be adopted by the new water company resulting from the consolidation of the La Crescenta and Dunsmoor Canyon Companies. When completed, these by-laws will be submitted to a joint stockholders' meeting for final action. It is expected the stockholders of both companies will give their solid vote to merge the two existing organizations, as the directors of both companies have unanimously voted to do so.

The funeral for the late Mrs. Stevens was held at Forest Lawn where the interment also took place. Mrs. Stevens, who was the mother of Mrs. Litton, residing at Glenwood and Sycamore avenues, was rendered unconscious by an attack of cerebral hemorrhage, two weeks ago, when the family were on a camping trip up in the Bishop country. Rushed home with all possible speed, Mrs. Stevens had seemed for a few days to be improving, but on Wednesday took a decided change for the worse and passed away early last Thursday morning.

Mrs. Sherwin has taken charge of the hemstitching department in the Glendale Singer Machine Shop. Mrs. Sherwin resides with her daughter, Mrs. Townsend, at Altura avenue. Mrs. Bennett, of the La Crescenta Pharmacy has consented to take charge of orders for hemstitching and piecing which may be left with her for Mrs. Sherwin, who promises all orders will receive her personal attention and will be returned to the customer within the minimum of time. Mrs. Sherwin's shop is in the Singer Machine Shop on East Broadway.

Mrs. N. W. Terrill of 342 West Lexington drive called The Glendale Evening News today to learn more particulars concerning the typhoon which injured many Americans at Peitaiho, a bathing beach on the north China coast, where her son's family is summering.

Little Toad In Big Puddle
Need Of Honest Leaders
Donnerwetter? Maybe So
German People Misruled
By Gil A. Cowan

SOMEbody once wisely said: "I would rather be a big toad in a little puddle than a little toad in a big puddle."

Perhaps that is the reason the writer would much prefer to bathe in a tub than in the ocean, which is beyond the point.

Clarence Saunders of Memphis, Tenn., is "broke." So sayeth the dispatches from a southern city. He had to give up control of the Piggy-Wiggy chain of stores, a very reputable concern.

Other grocery men have gone broke. Nothing strange in these days, but Clarence Saunders took an unusual method for doing so. He was not satisfied with Memphis, he hunched out. He placed his stores like Woolworth and Penney and Kress and the rest. He had the "chain bug."

But he forgot that any chain is only as strong as its weakest link. The weak link in his scheme was sending stock to outsiders. He permitted them almost gain control and then something happened. Indeed, it did.

Those playful bears of Wall street started to rush him. They began selling Piggy-Wiggy stock at less than what they paid. They caused reports to be circulated which caused suspicion. They battered the business until it could stand the strain no longer.

Clarence Saunders packed his personal fortune in a valise and moved from Memphis to New York. He started to "bull" the Wall street game. He had good intentions. Yes, he caught numerous "bear" speculators short, and he cleaned them.

And his financial capacity was limited to his actual resources. He appealed to friends, and they responded as usual. Those who were true blue came through. The others waited.

Today they are saying, "I told you so," as Mr. Saunders steps down and out of the game.

Perhaps he would be happier if he had one good grocerteria in Glendale.

After having got that sermon off our chest, just to show you how futile it is for men to gamble on the good faith of others, we will proceed to comment on those who do keep the faith.

Only night before last the writer had occasion to see several large organizations at work. Of course there were those sitting around who only paid the payroll, but directing the crew were men who could be relied upon to do the right thing at the right time. They are the essence of all organization.

And without a leader who is honest, without a helmsman who subverts selfish interest to that of the greater good—well, with out such service any organization is bound to disintegrate. Only recently six millions of dollars were paid for a Pittsburgh newspaper. The purchaser said, in effect, "Not only the good will of the business, as well as its volume, was considered, but the fact that behind this great newspaper enterprise there stood organization of years' standing, caused me to decide it was worth the price."

It was a wonderful tribute to the employees of the paper.

Again Germany is in the emotional throes of an impatient explosion. Ya! Ya! Donnerwetter and blitzen. There's going to be something more than corks popping for the French, we are confidently advised.

"Ain't that nice!" as the office boy says. It will make the summer social season at Deauville a complete success. Also Paris will have more interest for travelers. And Berlin will be so peaceable. Ya. Ya.

Already we can see the camouflage around Stinnes' industries and Cuno's marine collapse, leaving bared to the people of Germany a complete wreck. The coup of their financiers, who will flee, like the kaiser.

Too bad the allies didn't finish their chop in the fashion of their forebears and never given Wilhelm's whiskers the opportunity to grow.

As a wholesale murderer he was successful that he has been permitted to go free. And as the cleverest of international confidence workers there are some Germans we are thinking about who ought to be in the sheriff's care.

In a word, we have little sympathy for Germany while it is controlled by the clique which was the business brains of the war. At the same time, we pity the people who have to do their bidding. Which leads to the conclusion that any plan for world peace must come from the people.

Also, any local scheme for civic betterment must be one in which the populace is in hearty accord. No person or organization or the whole flock of organizations can put over anything that "Jon Doe" doesn't approve. It has to be an idea that appeals to John and all his brothers, who are legion.

Only another Barnum could fool the public. And while a "sucker" may be born every minute, there are only one or two Barnums in a hundred years. So it's one chance out of a hundred you have in getting away with "hokum" in government or civic affairs. If you are inclined to play tricks on the public, get in the oil game. And even there the skids are getting altogether too well greased.

Varied Program of Municipal Activities Is Prepared For Meet Tonight

The Eagle Rock Improvement association will hold a meeting tonight, August 14, in the auditorium of the city hall on East Colorado boulevard, at 8 o'clock, at which G. Gordon Whitnall, director of the Los Angeles Planning Commission, will be the principal speaker, announces H. M. Bruce, president.

A community sing will open the program. R. E. Hamilton, half owner of the Pasadena-Ocean Park stage line, will also speak, explaining the rate schedules that apply to his line, as part of a movement being carried on by the Improvement association to equalize rates. C. A. Labrum will speak on the lighting situation.

It is announced that four vice-presidents will be elected to supplement Mrs. Runge and Mr. Griffin, who at present hold these offices. There will also be reports from a number of committees, and later an open forum discussion will be had, when anyone who wishes to voice an opinion on any civic matter may do so.

Those who are present tonight at this meeting will benefit greatly by hearing Mr. Whitnall, in the opinion of Mr. Bruce, who says that the speaker plans to tell Eagle Rock residents some of the big things in store for Los Angeles, and the part this community will play in the same.

A kindergarten will be established in the San Rafael school as soon as suitable quarters can be provided, according to a communication received from the Los Angeles Board of Education by Mrs. S. B. Osborne, president of the San Rafael Parent-Teacher association. Mrs. Osborne lately forwarded to the board a petition containing thirty-one names, in favor of this kindergarten.

The women of the Presbyterian church gave a farewell reception Friday night, August 10, in honor of their retiring pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. B. B. Weatherall. The reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Bennett, 250 Paloma avenue. Music added to the charm of the occasion and Mrs. Elizabeth Cloud Miller gave a group of readings.

Mrs. Elgie Lowry Fischer, director of the Community Players, announces that "Three Live Ghosts" will be the next dramatic offering. The ghosts will appear in the auditorium of the Eagle Rock school but it has not yet been decided just when the haunting will take place.

Ruth Thompson, pianist and composer, has returned from her engagement at the Hotel del Coronado, where she recently gave a series of concerts. She has been engaged to give another series in the fall.

Mrs. Woodford, of Palm avenue, is visiting her daughter in San Francisco.

Mrs. L. A. Hutchins, of 162 Paloma avenue, is spending a few days in Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. C. I. Ritchey, of 149 Fairmont avenue, are entertaining Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Inge, from Denton, Texas. Mrs. Inge and Mrs. Ritchey are sisters.

Petty Larceny Limit Changed by Statute

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 14.—After August 17 the theft or embezzlement of any sum under $200 will constitute merely petty larceny in California, it was disclosed today, an amendment to the criminal law adopted at the last legislature so stipulating.

Under the old law, theft or embezzlement of a sum in excess of $50 was considered grand larceny. Petty larceny is punishable by only a county jail sentence, while grand larceny is a state prison offense.

Bus Transportation Up for Discussion

Local bus transportation will be discussed in an open meeting commencing at 7 o'clock tonight in the council chamber at the city hall under the auspices of the City Council.

City Manager W. H. Reeves this morning emphasized the importance of this meeting. He extended an official invitation to all interested to attend and express their views on the subject. Owing to the number of people who are expected to want the floor, it is probable that a rotation of five minutes will be enforced.

The vital point, according to Mr. Reeves, is the fact that Glendale is likely to obtain in the near future the transportation which has been needed for some time. He called attention to the fact that an offer to supply this has been offered by both the Verdugo Hills Transportation company and the Pacific Electric. He is one of the opinion that each of these companies is financially able to carry out their promises.

E. N. Radke Is Host To Northern Editors

The home of Ed N. Radke at 405 West Doran has been a gathering place for members of the printing and publishing fraternity during the past few days, as former friends of Mr. and Mrs. Radke visited Glendale from his old home in Marysville, in the northern part of the state. Among the visitors were W. S. O'Brien, editor of the Marysville Democrat, who was a Sunday guest, and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Alexander of the Alexander Print Shop of Marysville, who spent last Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Radke. Other Sunday guests were Mr. and Mrs. Leo Smith and their daughter, from Ventura, where Mr. Smith edits the Ventura Free Press.

All of these friends of Mr. and Mrs. Radke receive The Glendale Evening News from him frequently, and they are, he states, very generous in giving space to accounts of the growth of Glendale in their own papers, as typifying the spirit of Southern California and its progress.

THE GLENDALE

"Paddy-the-Next-Best-Thing" is showing at the Glendale theatre for the last times today. Pretty, clever Mae Marsh, star of "Intolerance" and "The Birth of a Nation," is the star of this English-made film, which was produced in County Meath, Ireland, with interiors shot in the Islington studio, London.

Graham Wilcox, the producer, sent a representative 12,000 miles to secure the services of Miss Marsh in the stellar role, a trip from London to Hollywood and return being made. The result is one of the most charming pictures full of the true Irish spirit this winsome star can so well enact.

A special novelty is to be found in the fact that one of the players is none other than the famous Duc de Thierry on whose estates in France the great battle of the late war took place.

THE GATEWAY

"Enemies of Women" is drawing large crowds to the Gateway Theatre, and with good reason, for this massive Goldwyn photoplay, made from the book by the famous author, Vicente Blasco Ibanez, contains in its powerful cast Lionel Barrymore, Alma Rubens, Gareth Hughes and many other prominent film folk.

Being "shot" by the camera means nothing to Peggy Lytton, a society girl who makes her film debut in this popular Cosmopolitan production—for Miss Lytton served over four years at the front during the world war, was shell-shocked and gassed, decorated by three governments, and created a Duchess by the fourth.

Alan Crosland, director of "Enemies of Women," has had a sensational rise. Ten years ago he was director of the Dartmouth college glee club. Today he is one of the biggest of the megaphone-singers.
